

Main column of handwritten text in a cursive script, containing dense Greek characters and some red ink markings.

Second column of handwritten text, continuing the script from the first column.

Third column of handwritten text, appearing as a separate block or continuation.